Dim Whims

"Parting is such sweet sorrow," as the old saying goes, but this I must do. The new staff of The Colonnade thinks I have done enough damage at GSCW so my services on the staff have been discontinued. It's been fun letting you in on some of the idiosyncracies of the "jessies" and I hope you have enjoyed them as much as I have.

The other night over in the gym I thought for a while that there was a basketball game going on between Tech and Georgia. If it had been them, there couldn't have been more school spirit and enthusiasm than there was between Atkinson and Ennis. The competition was terrific and packed with thrills. The final score gives you an idea of the thrills offered—21 to 21. After the game was over I think the referee and spectators were as exhausted as the players.

I must send orchids to the senior class. Second period Friday I walked in the "P.O." and there sat a group of seniors counting money as if they were misers and asking every senior who passed for a penny or nickel. When I inquired as to what was going on I found that they lacked nine dollars of their goal for the WSSF. But, as you will remember, by chapel period the seniors had made their goal and 75 cents over. That just goes to show what can be done if you are really in earnest. Congratulations seniors!

The Colonnade Speaks

About a year ago an editorial appeared in The Colonnade which stated the following things:

We will write accurate unbiased news stories . . . There will be no syndicated stories in The Colonnade . . . The Colonnade will keep you aware of the activities of your Student Council, your "Y" and your "Rec" and our editorials will back these organizations and promote their projects for better campus life . . . All stories will be copy and proof read before being published . . . We welcome letters to the editor.

We want to give you your paper written, edited and published as a paper should be. The Colonnade is your paper . . . We are working for it to be "The official voice of GSCW students."

Some of our aims have been reached; others have fallen short. Occasionally facts may have been misunderstood; sometimes we may have been a bit careless and inconsistent in copy or proof reading, but all has been read. Some Linotype mistakes have been made while correcting others; over this we have no control. All projects of "Y," "Rec," and CGA have been backed. Letters to the editor have been published. The paper has been read and enjoyed by many, and poll results show that the majority of the students think it "The official voice of GSCW students."

Yes, we have tried to give you your paper written and edited as it should be. Our hope now is that your forthcoming editors will ever keep high ideals for your paper in mind, and will make it a paper of which GSCW can be proud.

We are sorry that some of you did not receive your last issue of The Colonnade due to circulation difficulties. We shall try to do better with this issue.

RAINTREE COUNTY

Ross Lockridge, Jr.

Reviewed by Maude Morris

"Raintree County" is the story of American youth growing up from the 1840's to the 1890's. Its local is Indiana, the heartland of America, but the story goes wherever the Indiana boys and girls went—to New York, to New Orleans, to Washington, on Sherman's march through Georgia, and ever home again to Raintree County.

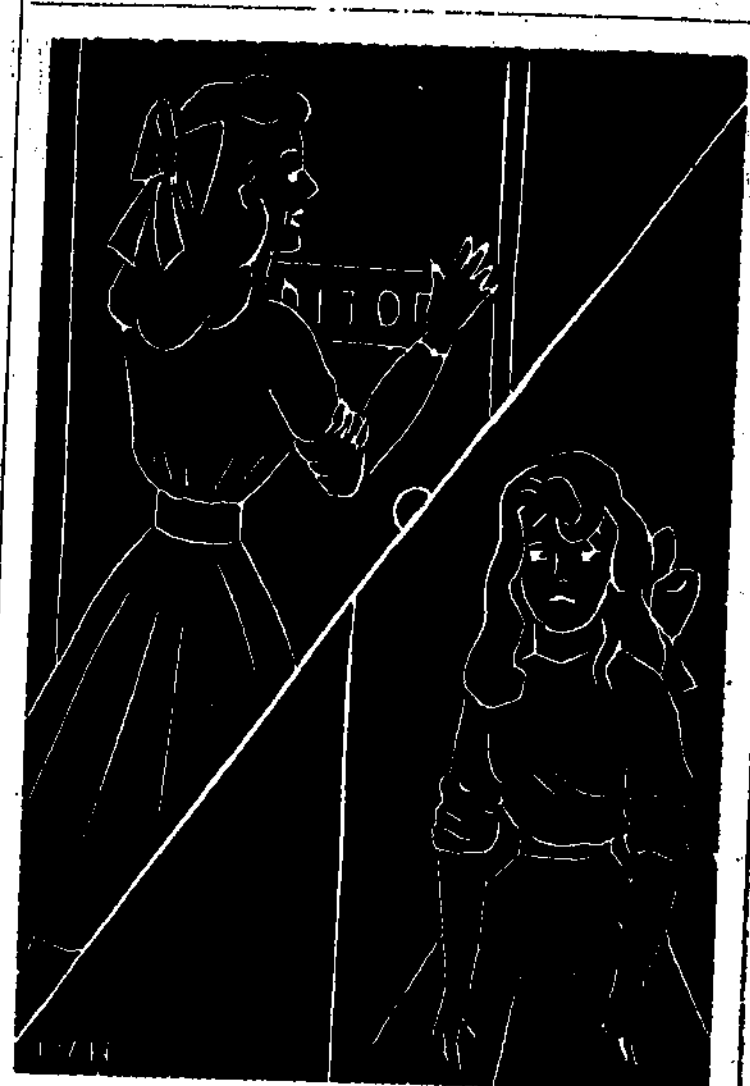

The story takes place in one day, but there are flashbacks covering the 50-year period. This is not confusing, for in all the lengthy story you never lose sight of the four who chiefly make it—Johnny Shawnessy, Garwood Jones, the "Perfesser," and "Cash" Carney. It is clear that the author meant these four to represent America.

Shawnessy is the epitome of the period and place in which he lived. He is the incorrigible American dreamer and idealist. Garwood Jones is the complete and clever materialist—known he is and likes it, plays democracy for his own pocket, gets things done, expects to be President, and is capable, kind and unscrupulous. Cassius Carney is the boy born to be a millionaire, starts with nothing, and dies of ulcers and success.

And the "Perfesser" is the cynical intellectual who understands everybody by himself.

Mr. Lockridge writes profusely and seems to go off the rails whenever he feels like it. But always he keeps you in suspense.

There may be more classical, more profound novels published this year, but certainly none more remarkable than "Raintree County." Take your time about reading—that is essential—and you can be guaranteed an experience.

"Spring '47 - Spring '48"

Majority Or Minority

People are often judged by manners. Etiquette is deemed important enough to be the subject for books. Therefore how we act is important at all times.

Most students exhibit wellbred behavior in the dining halls yet a minority are thoughtless enough to be careless about how they act. We should remember to modulate our voices when we are at meals. Some complaining about food seems to be natural, but if the fault finding becomes a continuous habit it disturbs others who enjoy the meal and leaves an impression of rudeness.

The hostess system was made a part of dining hall routine for our benefit. We are not cooperating when we pass out plates and serve ourselves. Girls who leave the table before everyone is ready to go do not set a good example for other students. However, exceptions are to be considered in every case.

Good manners are the rule rather than the exception in our dining halls now. By paying more attention to the smaller courtesies, however, we can make sure that this rule is a lasting one.

"Spring Accessories" Lacking?

Enthusiastic comment has shown the attitude of the student body towards the improvements, such as painting of classrooms and offices, that are being made in academic buildings. However, this "spring outfit" is not complete, for certain accessories are necessary to round out the picture.

New signs, or repainted ones, to mark such busy spots as the bursar's office or the personnel office would provide these finishing touches. Timeworn markers detract from the fresh appearance of the refinished rooms.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Why is it that our fine school laundry has to ruin its reputation by tearing up all the socks? I had an abundant supply of socks in September, but every time I send them to the laundry it tears huge holes in at least two pairs. Maybe it would be a good idea to check the rollers or whatever they use and see if there are any spikes or nails in them.

Juniors Dance To Washington Idea

George and Martha Washington greeted members of the junior class and their dates at the big gym where the annual junior dance was held Saturday night, Feb. 21. The couple, made of cotton and framed, watched the evening's activities from their place of honor over the bandstand. To carry out the theme, "George Washington's Birthday," the gym was decorated gayly with blue crepe paper streamers centered with a huge bouquet of red roses. The streamers were extended to the four corners where smaller bunches of roses were tied with a huge bow.

Between the entrance doors, two trees, representing cherry trees, flanked a huge silhouette of George bowing to Martha, Earla "Peaches" Poulnot was in charge of decorations.

A very impressive lead-out took place at 9:15 p.m. when the class officers and their dates and the dance chairman and their dates came through a white lattice gate bedecked with red roses. As they paused at the gate, located in one corner of the gym, Dr. Edward Dawson, class sponsor, called out their names as the orchestra played the junior class song. A grand march in which all juniors and their dates participated followed.

Two upperclassmen dormitories had pre-dance events Saturday. Sophomores in Beeson hall entertained the juniors of that dormitory and their dates at a tea in the afternoon. The juniors in Atkinson hall served their dates a fried chicken supper in the Atkinson parlor. Mrs. Marie Martin, housemother, with assistance from the hostesses, some sophomores, and the maids, prepared the meal.

Poll Reveals Interest In Graduate Study

Twenty-six GSCW seniors have indicated an interest in doing graduate work at some time following the completion of a bachelor's degree, as indicated in a recent poll conducted by Dr. James C. Bonner, chairman of Research and Graduate Study. The fields covered in graduate interest include biology, English, history, Spanish, sociology, government, home economics and education. Dr. Bonner stated that several seniors are applying for graduate school fellowships at various universities and he expects that fellowships will be awarded to three or four outstanding graduates of the college. A list of fellowship awards is posted on the bulletin board of Parks Hall for seniors who are interested in applying for graduate school. Since the application date for most of these closes on March 1, Dr. Bonner urges that the seniors check on them.

STUDENTS TO SEE PLAY

Members of Literary Guild, Jesters, and the Shakespeare class will attend a performance of "Twelfth Night" to be presented by the Barter Players in Macon tonight.

An Open Letter of Appreciation

Dear GSCW:

This is the last issue of The Colonnade to be published while I am editor.

I hope you have not been disappointed in your editor and her staff. They have worked hard to give you your paper as it should be.

It has been quite an experience to say the least. One hardly knows what to think when the mailbox contains such things as: "Order orchid seeds now. Ten cents a package" or a series of pin-up gals sent to "Dear Sir," or a feature entitled "How to Spot Wolves". (Girls, I still have the article if you're interested.)

And we've had our trying times. Big stories sometimes didn't mature, it's rained most every day pictures have been scheduled, difficulties have been encountered with the machines at the printers, stories nearly always run too long or too short for the space allotted, copy has been inconsistent, and our typewriter has been a continual "problem child."

But it's been enjoyable. It is a privilege to have represented GSCW at conventions. It has been satisfying to see through you that the paper has improved, for when you read it and compliment or complain, we know that you are interested, and are noticing changes. We hope that some of our editorials have "struck home."

The staff appreciates the interest of faculty and administration in the paper. We are honored that suggestions made via The Colonnade have been carried out when possible and deemed advisable.

Very capable persons are taking over now. They have the training, the will, and the personality to keep the paper on the upward climb. Support them as you have us.

Sincerely,

ELLEN GWIN, Retiring Editor.

MISS BLACKMON SPEAKS

"Georgia Education Machinery" will be discussed by Miss Frances Blackmon at the current affairs meeting Thursday, Feb. 26, at 6:15 p.m. Both "y" and the League of Women Voters are sponsoring this program.

ART EXHIBIT IN PORTER OPENED TO THE PUBLIC

An art exhibition, showing the work of Louise Jordan Hemenway, opened in the Art Gallery in the Porter Fine Arts Building at GSCW Feb. 20 to be shown through March 12. The exhibition came to GSCW from Little Gallery, Canton, Ohio, through the Studio Guild under the direction of Grace Pickett, Miss Mamie Padgett, head of the GSCW art department, announced this exhibition last week.

PHI U TO GIVE KID PARTY FEB 24

A kid party will be given by Phi U tonight, Tuesday at 6:30 celebrating Founder's Day. The party, to be held in the Home Ec Lounge, will assemble junior and senior majors and members of the home economics faculty.

THE UNION - RECORDER staff, Miss Florence Moran, Mrs. Andrew Harrison, Jere Moore, Jim Lloyd (back), Bob Moore, Ernest Wyatt, John Pate, Bill Johnson, Charlie Gregory, Paul Smith for suggestions for improvement in makeup and style, for patience with a "green" editor, for understanding our problems, for printing our paper.—THANKS

"CAUGHT IN THE ACT" is Mrs. Marie Martin, housemother of Atkinson, making peanut candy for a surprise dormitory party.

Mother Martin Caught Redhanded

It looks like Mother Martin was caught redhanded, right in the middle of peanut candy!

"It's another of my queer customs," she told us, as she went right ahead, making a surprise party for her children by adoption. At least, she says, she fools herself into thinking it is a surprise, but keen noses will smell, especially with the aroma of that delicious peanut candy fills the dormitory, and someone is bound to know that Mother Martin is up to something.

The party was in celebration of Valentine's day, and it is an annual surprise that Mrs. Martin springs on her brood. Many of her youngest children weren't prepared, however, and they were surprised right out of their bedroom shoes.

As they trooped downstairs to what they thought was going to be a regular dormitory meeting, they were stopped short by the sight of a large table in the center of the hall. The table

Swim Meet Set For Feb. 23-24

The annual swimming meet, sponsored by the Penguin Club at GSCW will be held Feb. 23-24 in the college pool. Judges and participants have been announced:

Margaret Cox Lilly, and Leotus Morris, Savannah, are senior managers. Seniors swimming in the meet include:

Bobbie Mann, Newnan; Frances Lewis, Fitzgerald; Mary Curry, Griffin; Helen Newsome, Wrightsville; Doris Helton Boling, Atlanta; Frances Binion, Milledgeville; Carolyn Hancock, Atlanta; Billie Sweerus, Townsend; Margaret Cox, Lilly; and Leotus Morris, Savannah.

JUNIORS TO SWIM

Joyce Mills, Brinson, is junior class manager. Members of that class participating in the events include:

Olive Boline, Washington; Clarence Sut'on, Brunswick; Betty Matthews, Wrens; Shirley Giles, Sparta; Estelle Elliott, Cartersville; Louise Crawford, Macon; Jean Hayslip, Statesboro; Joan Hungerford, Atlanta; Sally Harrell, Thomasville; Barbara Ingram, Marietta; Natalie Hymes, Savannah; and Doris Pollard, Atlanta.

SOPHOMORES SELECTED

Sophomore class manager is Martha Pittard, Winterville. Sophomores swimming in the meet will be:

FRESHMEN SELECTED

Elizabeth Kendall, Atlanta, is class manager for the freshman class. Co-manager is Dot Pinkston, Atlanta. Freshmen swimming in the meet will be:

Nona Wolford, Commerce; Lynn Cooper, Atlanta; Joyce Atwood,

Atlanta; Mary Quinn Harvey, Millen; Jane Martin, Atlanta; Lou Davis, Albany; Pat Austin, Columbus; Elizabeth Kendall, Atlanta; Louise Clark, Sanford, Fla.; Bess McCall, Cordele, Ethelen Cater, Macon; Harriet Hornbuckle, Ome- ga.

As large trays of peanut candy and the gauntlet of eager Jessies, Mrs. Martin presented her program, Merrie Massey did a tap dance to "Fog of My Heart," and Marilyn Keyes gave a reading. Four members of the Madrigal Singers, Jean Garwood, Carolyn King, Charlotte Crane, and LaNelle Edwards sang.

These girls were all presented with little boxes of candy kisses to take home with them, and then the whole dormitory did some group singing at the request of Mother Martin.

When the years are fat, Mother Martin told us, she serves cookies and tea; and when the years are lean, she serves peanut candy. This happened to be a lean year. But, do you know, we think the Atkinson girls kind of like lean years!

There's A Typewriter Loose In Our Midst

Alas! Life is no longer worth while! The whole Colonnade staff might as well go down themselves in the river like an unwanted litter of kittens. If the weeping and wailing is not stopped soon, The Colonnade office will be the river!

The disaster is this: Our typewriter is missing, and no one knows its whereabouts! Lost, strayed, or stolen, it cannot be found. Our precious little baby, alone, out in the cold, perhaps starving for a typewriter ribbon and typing paper.

And it was a nice little typewriter while it was ours. A bit careless, perhaps, and undependable—we could never use it when we needed it most—but we loved it. Yes, in spite of its faults and its little whimsies, we loved it. And now it is gone!

We are fearing the worst—that perhaps our little darling has been made away with by some fiend who could not resist its charms. If this is true, we shall surely be lost.

All that we can hope for is that this typewriter can support our dear in the manner to which it has been accustomed. Oh, lordy! It will be in shreds if and when we get it back! Perhaps when he knows Junior be'ter, he will return it. (This seems likely, knowing Junior as we do.)

Till then, we will either have to borrow a typewriter, or send our copy to the printer "writ by hand!"

Art Club Announces Change in Plans

The Art Club is announcing a change in its plans for the exhibition, April 7 through April 14 are the new dates, and the exhibition is to be of everyday objects (not drawings) which one thinks particularly interesting, unusual or beautiful.

Each student is invited to enter an object. It may be anything from a stinky perfume bottle to a streamlined can opener or candy box. The objects are to be judged on line, color, and design.

The various prizes and ribbons will be awarded to the owners of winning objects. Objects should be brought to the Art Gallery between March 27 and April 1.

New Ideas Caught In Spring Whirl

You probably do or will have spring fever before long, for spring is peeking around the corner of the calendar, but has your wardrobe caught on to the idea yet?

Let's talk about the spring idea—about the full skirts, with their whispering taffeta petticoats; about the slim skirts, with ruffles and flounces; and about which type is for you.

Would you like to know about the blouses, lush with tucks, ruffles, and lace; about pastel shades with hose to match; about scarfs and necklines; the slim as a shallow waistline? Or maybe you're interested in the new crisp as lettuce co'tons, not to mention color—Honey Blonde, Peach, Biege Silver Olive—when and where to wear them, and just anything else in the fashion trend for spring.

If you're wondering when and where to get this information—the time 9:30 each Friday morning, the place, Chapel Hall, Room 13.

Here's an idea of the topics to be discussed during the coming weeks: Shoes, scarfs, color, blouses, how to change old clothes to new, suits, and fashions for short and tall girls.

You know the time and place and if you are interested in the clothes to select and when and where to wear them, then YOU are the girl.

DR ALLEN SPEAKS TO PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

Dr. Edwin Allen of Allen's Invalid Home, Milledgeville, spoke to the Psychology Club, Feb. 9.

Dr. Allen discussed the problems met in the admission of mental patients; the techniques and methods used in discovering the causes of mental illness; and the special treatments used in restoring a healthy mind to the patient.

After the discussion, Dr. Allen answered questions from the members, clearing up many erroneous concepts concerning the number of patients in mental hospitals.

Dr. Allen's advice for keeping a sound mind is to have broad interests, many friends, and an objective viewpoint.
